

A List of Possibilities of The Future of Kensington Market (DRAFT)

1. A future where Kensington is suddenly turned into all dispensaries.
2. A future where Kensington we have Pedestrian Sundays again and there's Karaoke in the park and I hog the mic forever and we all sing along to Bohemian Rhapsody but no one can hit that high note.
No one.
3. A future where we all have a nice dinner together when it's safe again. We have a lovely dinner with roast and wine and then we fight over who does the dishes out of politeness, but I fight you less hard on it so I don't have to do the dishes because I really don't want to.
4. A future where the plants and trees overtake the entire park winding their way around the concrete barriers, lamp posts, the cracks in the sidewalks and eventually the streets.
5. A future where everybody is safe and everybody takes care of everybody.
